

Going to Brewing In The Basement on Saturday Evening

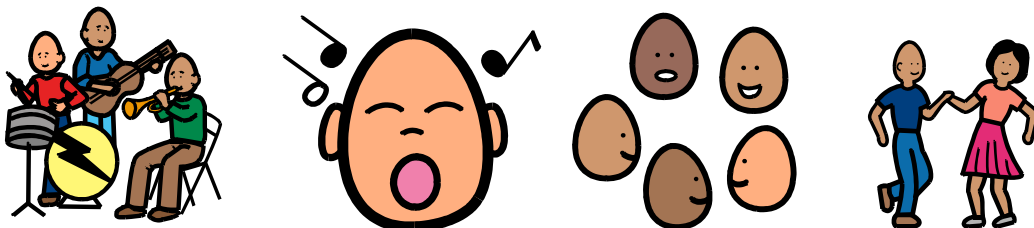

Brewing in the Basement will be at the Barbican Centre.

The Barbican Centre is an arts and learning centre in London.

There will be a concert and party in the evening.

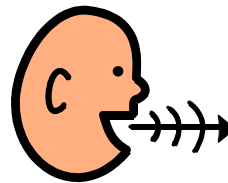

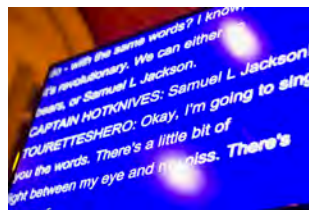

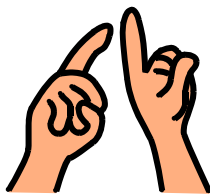

There will be bands, singers, people talking and dancing.

The party is happening in the Pit Theatre on Level -2.

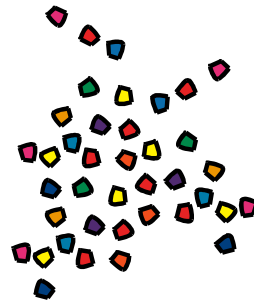

You will be able to sit in seats wherever you like. There will be some mats and cushions if you would like to lie down. It will be a relaxed performance, which means if you want to make noise or get up at any time you can. You can also leave and come back in whenever you like.

There will be signers for people who are d/Deaf. There will be words for people who are hard of hearing. An audio describer will say what is happening for anyone who can't see. There will be more detailed audio description on headphones, which anyone can ask for.

Touretteshero will be the Compere. This means she will welcome everybody to the room and introduce each of the acts.

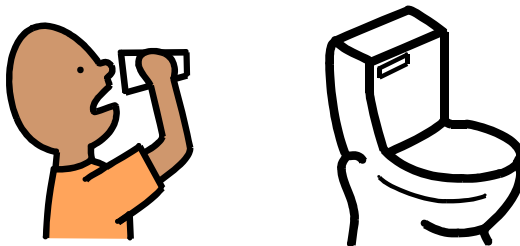

Sounds Like Chaos are a theatre company for young people. They will perform and show videos. There will be confetti at the end of their show.

Amelia Cavello will perform an Audio Described burlesque act. She will take her clothes off and describe what is happening.

Captain Hotknives will play guitar and sing songs. Some songs might be funny and some songs might be rude.

There will be a 15 minute break.
You will be able to get a drink and go to the toilet if you want to.

Donna Williams will perform two poems in British Sign Language.
A sign language interpreter will say the words in English.

Ono and Holly will have a conversation about feminism and being a woman.

The Fish Police will play music. You will be invited to get up and dance if you want to.

There will be a surprise finale with singing and biscuits.

Then there will be a DJ and dancing.

Brewing In The Basement will finish at 10pm.
